

Comenius fourth visit - Back from Madrid

The fourth Comenius mobility took us to Spain where staff and pupils met their European partners.

This visit once more confirmed the bonds that, along the meetings, have arisen between the people who have been taking part in this project.

Apart from the cultural side of the visit, and the discovery of Madrid, the focus was on science and the pupils experienced international team work and were asked to build a solar windmill.

We also visited two research centres to have a glimpse at what the future may look like in matters of energy consumption.

Thanks to the impressive involvement of the Spanish team, this trip was a success that will certainly remain in every participant's memory.
